The Railroads are the Country's Largest Buyers-

of many products, principal among which are coal, lumber, iron and steel. Here are some figures that should impress every reader of this newspaper. The railways purchase and consume one fourth of all the coal mined in the United States, one fourth of all the lumber, and from thirty to forty per cent of all the iron and steel output.

There is no single industry or business in all America that so vitally affects the immediate welfare of all classes of people, because when the actual number of railroad employees is supplemented by the workers in industries largely dependent on the carriers,—the great business of transportation becomes the backbone of our industrial life.

Keep these and other facts about railroads in mind when you read sensational newspaper and magazine articles attacking the railroads and suggesting "improvements". If readers of this newspaper are further interested in securing authentic information about the railroads and their operation, they are invited to address the Bureau of Railway Economics, Washington, D. C. If the question concerns the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in particular, address the general offices of the company at Louisville, Ky.

MAN, 76, RUN DOWN AND KILLED BY AUTO

Crossing Watchman's Death Fourth Motor Car Fatality Here in 48 Hours.

Edward Desnoyer, 76 years old, 6454 Virginia avenue, a crossing watchman for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, died at City Hospital at 1:10 this morning of injuries suffered two hours previously, when he was struck by an automobile on Broadway, south of Robert street.

He had started to cross Broadway from the east side, when a north-bound machine, driven by Sandor Schmemann, 31, a tool and die maker, 4825 Dahlia avenue, hit him. His skull, several ribs and both legs were fractured. Schmemann said that Desnoyer had appeared to be confused by the approach of the machine which, he said, he was driving at a moderate speed, adding that he sounded the horn.

An inquest will be held today in the case of Miss Helen Engstrom, 25, 2864 Wisconsin avenue, a telephone operator, who died at Barnes Hospital at 1:10 a. m. yesterday of injuries suffered Friday afternoon, when a machine in which she was riding was struck by a Kirkwood-Ferguson car at Clayton road, St. Louis County. The machine was driven by Harry E. Leonard, 2324 Glasgow avenue.

As told in the Saturday and Sunday Post-Dispatch, a man died early Saturday as the result of an automobile accident and another one shortly before midnight Saturday. In all there were four motor fatalities here in a period of less than 48 hours ending this morning.

Six Injured in Four Automobile Accidents

A speeding black touring car, which did not stop at a red light, struck Cecil Plue, 24, a mechanic employed by the Royal Pump Co., 1709 South Third street, at Broadway and Itasca street, as he stepped out for a street car. He suffered a probable fracture of the skull, internal injuries, scalp wounds and the loss of four teeth.

Estie Clinek, 16, 911 North Vandeventer avenue, suffered a fracture of the skull and internal injuries when hit at Grand boulevard and Enright avenue by a car driven by William Kenney of 2418 Coleman street. Two taxicabs collided at Eighteenth street and Washington avenue, and Joseph D. McGuire, 519 Walnut street, and Frank Mercurio, 1104 North Tenth street, riding in one of them, were hurt. Mercurio's right shoulder was fractured.

Martin Faeth of an express company at 517 Clark avenue, and Vincent Poindester, 15, his helper, suffered minor injuries in collision of their truck with another car.

Mrs. Arthur Luehrmann, 5949 Garfield avenue, was injured when a machine in which she was riding overturned on the Alton road, north of St. Charles.

SHOTS FIRED FROM AUTO AT MAN ON STREET; OCCUPANT WOUNDED

Michael Carr, 26 years old, of 1815 South Broadway, reported to police that three shots were fired at him from an automobile in front of 922 LaSalle street at 7:45 p. m. yesterday.

He said he was standing on the sidewalk when the automobile stopped near him. A man called "Oh Mike, come here a minute." Carr said the shots were fired as he approached the automobile, after which it sped away. Carr was uninjured.

Some time later police found Daniel Kokotovich, 31, of 1107 Rutger street, in a drug store at 2628 Chouteau avenue receiving treatment for a bullet wound in the left thigh. Kokotovich at first told police he had been hit by a stray bullet fired from one of two machines which were speeding east on Hickory street at Eighteenth street.

Later Kokotovich admitted, police say, that he was in the automobile from which shots were fired at Carr. He said a misdirected bullet struck him. Both Carr and Kokotovich gave police the name of the man alleged to have been driving the automobile.

CONDITION OF GEORGE J. GOULD REPORTED CONSIDERABLY WORSE

Complications of Dropsical Nature Have Developed and His Recovery Is Not Expected.

MENTONE, France, April 2.—After a good night's rest Friday and Saturday with a consequent moderate change for the better, George J. Gould's condition has become considerably worse and it is feared he will not survive long enough to see his children. The latest bulletin from the sick room at the Villa Zoraida is that the patient's strength is ebbing away and recovery is hardly to be looked for.

The serious complications that have now ensued are of a dropsical nature, a state that frequently follows heart disease. It was foreseen by Lord Dawson, physician to King George, who remains in constant attendance.

NEW YORK, April 2.—At the last moment Kindred and Jay Gould, who were to have sailed on the Mauretania Saturday to see their father, canceled their reservations. Advice from France as to the patient's condition will largely determine whether the sons will leave this week.

5-MINUTE BREAKFASTS

There's now a Quick Quaker Oats. It cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes. No other oats can compare for quick cooking.

Same flavor, same quality as regular Quaker Oats. This brand is always flaked from the finest grain only. But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Your grocer has both styles—Quick Quaker and regular. Tell him which style you prefer.

A letter that is interesting for three reasons

HERE is a letter from a woman who has put floors of Armstrong's Linoleum in her house. As you read it, you will note three things of interest:

June 13, 1922

Dear Sirs:

I wish to thank you for the great help you have been to me in making my house a home. I had no idea linoleum could be so attractive.

I wish your book on Home Decoration could be read by every housewife in the United States.

I have bought from Maas Brothers, Tampa, Florida, the linoleum you suggested for my two baths, sleeping porch and kitchen—the blue Jaspé is beautiful.

Since buying this linoleum I have decided to use Armstrong's Linoleum in my sun room. I should like you to suggest something that would make this room very attractive. Enclosed is rough sketch of our new house. Walls rough stucco like house. Am having walls of the sun room painted a flat tone bright sage green. In the center is to be a fountain of cement. Floor at present is cement, but I expect to place linoleum over it.

I know this room can be made beautiful, therefore I am appealing to you to suggest anything you can to help me make it a little unusual.

Thanking you again, I am
Sincerely yours,
(Name on request)

Frostproof, Florida

In the first two paragraphs there is an undercurrent of mild, pleased surprise that linoleum floors should have proved so satisfactory.

She liked them better than she had expected to—a very comfortable feeling to have after making any purchase.

Next, you will note that she has decided to put down more linoleum floors.

Also, she is enlisting the service of our Department of Interior Decoration for suggestions as to color harmony and the securing of a certain effect.

Typical of many letters

This letter is typical of many we receive. More and more women are turning to linoleum for floors. Some houses are being built in which floors of Armstrong's Linoleum are specified for every room. And again and again letters come from women, saying they "had no idea" linoleum would look so well and be so easy to take care of.

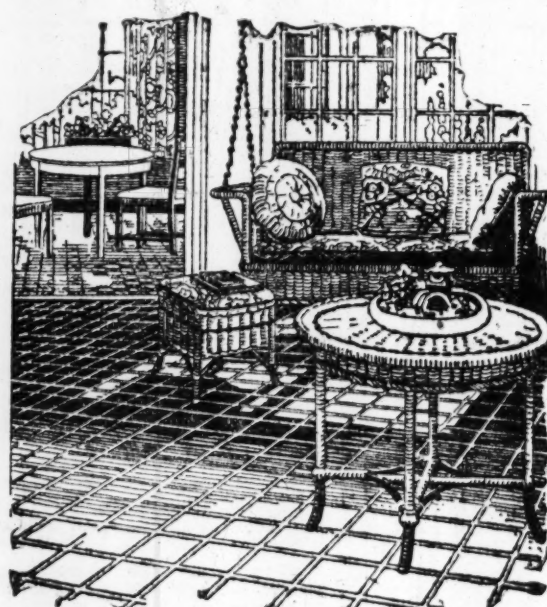

There is every reason why a floor of linoleum should be satisfactory. The wealth of colors and patterns in which Armstrong's Linoleum is made gives full opportunity for beautiful effects either bright and colorful, or quiet and subdued.

Armstrong's Linoleum

for Every Floor in the House

A sun room with a floor of Armstrong's linoleum.

Qualities peculiar to linoleum

From a practical point of view, linoleum makes a splendid floor. Linoleum is water-proof, dust-proof, grease-proof. It is the easiest of all floors to clean, and it is quiet. When carefully laid, linoleum makes a permanent floor and requires little attention beyond an occasional waxing and polishing. Floors of linoleum can be laid in new homes, in remodeled homes or in old homes where floors need refinishing.

The 1923 patterns of Armstrong's Linoleum include beautiful Jaspé (two-tone) effects, parquetry inlaid, tile inlaid, and carpet inlaid. Then there are a number of plain colors and attractive printed designs.

Write for free sample and booklet

Let us send you a sample of Armstrong's Linoleum and our 24-page booklet, "New Floors for Old." The booklet contains a score of colorplates of distinctive designs in Armstrong's Linoleum that you can see at good stores; Jaspés, carpet inlaid, tile inlaid, marble tiles and printed patterns; also, information on laying linoleum and how to care for your linoleum floors.

Your architect, contractor, or any good linoleum merchant can give you estimates of the cost of Armstrong's Linoleum, laid in your home.

Armstrong's Linoleum Rugs

For people who live in apartments or who have houses on short leases and consequently do not wish to install permanent linoleum floors, Armstrong's Linoleum is also made in the form of bordered rugs. Thirty attractive patterns, in four sizes, from 6 x 9 feet to 9 x 12 feet.

The Torrington Demonstrator will show its many uses

WHEN he calls at your home he will do much more than merely attach The Torrington to a lamp socket and then run it back and forth over a rug or carpet. That is the easiest thing in the world for The Torrington.

He will do that, certainly. And he will demonstrate a dozen and one other every day uses for The Torrington that perhaps you never thought were possible.

Cleaning draperies, radiators, picture frames, drawers, book-cases, closets, clothing—getting dust and dirt from corners and crevices—tell The Torrington Demonstrator what you think is a real test. Then watch how easily, surely, and quickly The Torrington does the job.

"The most faithful servant in the home" is what women call their Torringtons. This faithful servant will go to work for you the minute you are ready.

SAMPSON—Strength! SAMPSON—Mystery!

None of the Philistines could guess Sampson's riddle, "Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness," until his Philistine sweetheart wheedled its meaning out of him.

To her, Sampson confided that it referred to the honey and the honeycomb which he found the bees had stored in the bleached skeleton of the young lion he had slain on one of his visits to her. And she told her kinsmen. And Sampson punished the Philistines terribly for their perfidy.

Sampson's name stood, and still stands for unequalled strength—and for tantalizing mystery.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR CHILDREN

When the Federal Forces Made Their Third Attempt to Capture Richmond, They Suffered a Crushing Defeat.

Operations by Lee.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON,
Author of "The Story of Mankind."

GEN. LEE did not have men enough to attempt a siege of Washington. He decided that the next best thing to do would be to move north into Maryland, free it from "the foreign joke," and then go into Pennsylvania and take Harrisburg. By the 7th of September his whole army had crossed the Potomac. Just a little way north of the river lies the little town of Frederick, where Stonewall Jackson is supposed to have encountered that patriotic old lady, Barbara Frietschie. Meanwhile, Gen. McClellan had been restored to his old post of Commander in Chief of the Union forces. As a contrast to Pope, he was given a hearty welcome. He swiftly reorganized the shattered army and set off in pursuit of Lee. Lee entrenched himself upon Antietam Creek, which flows into the Potomac from the north, and here McClellan attacked him. Had the Union commander moved more swiftly, he could have gained an overwhelming victory, but he was so slow and deliberate in his movements that there was plenty of time for reinforcements to reach the Confederates, and they repelled the Northern attack, with great loss of life upon both sides.

However, Lee saw that it would be impossible for him to continue his march to the north at that time, so he recrossed the Potomac into Virginia. The North rejoiced greatly when they heard that there was no longer any danger of invasion, but McClellan was sharply censured for failing to cut off Lee's retreat to the south, and was again removed from his command, the post being given to Gen. Ambrose Everett Burnside, who had fought with great bravery at Antietam.

It was now decided that a third attempt be made upon Richmond. McClellan had tried to come up the peninsula, and had failed. Pope had tried to follow the railroad by way of Manassas, with the same result. Burnside chose a new route. He tried to go down the Potomac to Aquia Creek, and then follow the railroad which led from that point to Richmond by way of Fredericksburg, upon the Rappahannock River. The Confederate armies were in the western part of the State, and Burnside reached the Rappahannock, opposite Fredericksburg, before the enemy. He intended to cross the river by means of pontoon bridges (a pontoon bridge is made by laying planks across a line of small boats), but, unfortunately, his pontoons were not ready for him and he had to wait. As a result, by the time he was ready to cross the river, the Confederates had arrived, and were in a strong position upon some hills on the south side of the river. Nevertheless, the Union soldiers crossed over and attempted to storm the heights. It was a fatal move. In one day's fighting more than 12,000 Union soldiers were killed, but only 5,000 Confederates. It was the most crushing defeat which the North had yet suffered. They gave up all idea of taking the city, and retreated to the northern bank of the Rappahannock. The third attempt to reach Richmond had resulted in an even worse failure than the other two, and Gen. Burnside was promptly removed from command. His successor was Gen. Hooker, commonly known as "Fighting Joe."

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG
It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

FRANCE COME WASHINGTON MODERN

Minister of Marine of Naval Accor penditure

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 2.—France is the 51,000,000 (normally about 600,000) francs in modernized capital ships under the G. ment's interpretation of the London naval accords. At the of the Associated Press, the Minister of Marine, Flaminius Raibert, today explained at length what is being done.

"You ask me two questions," said, "one relative to the construction of the Washington treaties. The first subject is with in the first section of the part of the Washington treaty naval armaments, which are the contracting Powers to the defensive power of the against submarine and aerial by additional lateral causes protecting bridges, provided the rate is not increased more than ten."

"As to artillery the treaty any change in the number, and general type of mounting units of principal armaments, ever, recognizing the special of France, which possesses units—as she ceased to do since the war—she is author in Italy, to increase the caliber of her battleships, provided the caliber does not exceed 16 inches."

Confirming Strictly to the provisions, even before the treaty. The only modification of her armament she contemplates that which consists in increasing the angle of elevation of the gun her battleships, thereby increasing their range, and to modernize methods.

"It was in 1914, on the Mediterranean) that we began transformation of artillery of the war." This was necessary to the range possible with our gun mountings. We could have an advantage of the right of the Washington treaty by increasing these guns by increasing caliber. We preferred not to do anything from the program. In 1916 and we do not consider an increase in caliber although Washington treaty expressly nine our right to do so.

"I come to the second. The Government has asked to ratify the Washington accords. If ratification of the ties has not yet been effected, the Government's effort reasons therefore can be the development of the battle, which has occupied the part of the Chamber's the large number of interpellations to discussion of urgent general interest, such as law, and finally, to the success of the eminent report naval treaty, the Honorable Minister."

Ready to Take Up The "We fortunately is in good health now, and the ment expects to ask that of the Washington accords on the program of the Chamber as the Foreign Affairs mission submits its report."

PLAZA CONDEMN BILL TO BE REP

Aldermen to Obtain Ne ure Later to Avert sible blocking.

A bill directing closing of condemn 10 blocks adjacent city hall and Municipal Building, for the $4,000,000 Plaza authorized in the election Feb. 9, last, will die with this session. Board of Aldermen, due to technicality affecting the the city to erect public buildings taken for plaza purposes. The last meeting of the board is scheduled for April 17.

Ford Fear-Complex Now Vexes Orthodox Dreams

Report of Study by Committee of Business Men Made Public by Secretary Hoover.

ACCURATE TRADE INFORMATION NEEDED

Banking Restrictions on Credit Expansion and Con- trol of Construction Work Also Suggested.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Cycles in the characteristics of industrial operation in the United States and abroad

which, in past years, have tended to precipitate eras of industrial inflation and rising prices, only to be succeeded by long periods of unemployment, sharply falling prices and great business losses, can be reduced, at least in degree, according to a report of business men made public by Secretary Hoover of the Commerce Department.

By increasing the total of accurate trade information available to business managers; by banking restrictions on credit expansions, and by the control of public and private construction projects, that the program may be coordinated to

Owen D. Young of the General Electric Co., Joseph H. Defrees, former president of the United States

Chamber of Commerce; Mary V. Kleeck of the Russell Sage Foundation; Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and Clarence M. Woolley, president of the American Radiator Company, are members of the committee created by the national unemployment conference of 1932.

Hoover's Summary. "Broadly, the business cycle is a recurrence of irregularly separated booms and slumps," Hoover said.

"The general conclusion of the committee is that, as the slumps are the main due to the waste, extravagance, speculation, inflation, overexpansion, and inefficiency in production developed through the boom, the strategic point of attack is the reduction of these evils, mainly through provision for such current economic information as will show the signs of danger and its more general understanding and use by producers, distributors, and banks inducing more constructive and safer policies.

The report does not suggest panaceas or economic revolution but seeks to drive home the fact that the enlargement of judgment in individual business men as to the trend of business and consequent widened vision as to approaching dangers will contribute greatly stability and that the necessary information upon which such judgments can be based must be systematically recruited and distributed.

"The investigation shows that many firms have pursued such policies and have come through the recent period with stability.

"The whole problem belongs to vast category of issues which we must as a nation confront in the elimination of waste if we are to maintain and increase our high standards of living. No waste greater than unemployment, no suffering is keener or more fraught with despair than that due to inability to get jobs by those who wish to work.

Views of Committee.
 "Knowledge of one's own business should be strengthened by knowledge of the conditions in the industry of which it is a part," the committee declares in approaching its study "and by information about current business trends in general business conditions."

"First the business man must have available for his use current facts about general business conditions throughout the country. Second, he must have the basic facts about his industry. Third, he must secure enough facts about his own business to give him not merely statistics, but a proper basis for judgment as to his general policies. Fourth, he must inform himself about the credit situation."

LOYD IN CLIMB TO COMEDY HEIGHTS

"The Glimpses of the Moon," "Vanity Fair," "Down to the Sea in Ships" Also on Local Bills.

As a combination of comedy and thrills, it would be difficult to surpass Harold Lloyd's latest and longest picture, "Safety Last," which is now on view at the Grand Central West End Lyric and Capitol Theaters. This sets a new mark for comic films in sustaining humorous interest through seven reels. Even Chaplin has never attempted to carry comedy to such lengths. Lloyd crowds the seven reels with fun and injects into two of them a thrill the like of which has never been seen before.

In the role of a small town boy he goes to the big city to make his fortune. Of course he leaves behind a girl whom he hopes to marry when he acquires a bankroll. The big city isn't passing up golden opportunities when he gets there, the best he can land is a $15-a-week job as a department store clerk. His letters home lead the girl to believe he is on the high road to success.

The rich comedy in the department store scenes would of itself make a great picture, but there is more to follow. The girl goes to the city. This calls for new deceptions on Harold's part and spurs his ambition to make good. The store offers $1000 for an idea to attract crowds. One of Harold's acquaintances is a "human fly." Harold suggests that the climbing of the 12-story building by his friend would draw a crowd. The boss thinks so, too. By an act of stunt, stances the expert is prevented from keeping the engagement and Harold must do the climbing. Here follow all the thrills known to trick photography and stunt acting. But for the relieving comedy the climb would be a shock to sensitive nerves, but as it is done, this effect has been skillfully avoided and the laughs outnumber the gasps.

Edith Wharton and Einstein.

The tremendous irony which puts idlers and fritters at the top of society, and workers and thinkers on the bottom, forms the basis of the remarkably accurate and artistic picture, "The Glimpses of the Moon," which is being shown at the Missouri Theater this week. While purporting to be the romance of a poor novelist and a little sister of the rich, it really is a scathing exposition of the lives led by those people whose only problem is spending money and amusing themselves. It is a chronicle of the trivial, futile, hollow pursuits of those who go north in summer, south in winter, and to Europe between seasons.

A cast of extraordinary brilliance holds the performance on a high level. It includes Bebe Daniels—whose serious work is improving at a great rate—David Powell and Miss Naidi. Miss Daniels has the role of the poor relative of wealth, and Powell is the equally poor author. The complication is furnished by the introduction of a banker's wife for the novelist and the affection of an English nobleman—the dearest chap of the whole outfit—for the poor cousin.

A remarkable motion picture explanation of the Einstein theory, shown free Saturday through an arrangement between the Post-Dispatch and the theater, is being run daily at noon. It was fully described in Sunday's Post-Dispatch. A condensed version is shown at the regular performances. The program includes some tinted scenes of marvelous beauty from the flowering fields of Normandy.

A notable production is the screen version of "Vanity Fair" at the Delmonte. This version of Thackeray's great novel was directed by Hugo Ballin, who was famed as an artist before he allied himself with the movies. The leading role of "Becky Sharp" is played by the director's wife, Mabel Ballin, one of the screen's finest actresses. There is a notable cast including Hobart Bosworth, George Walsh, Harrison Ford, Earle Fox, Eleanor Boardman, Willard Fox and Robert Mack.

Correct costumes and excellent individual portrayals make the Thackeray characters live again. The picture closely follows the book in making interest center around the life and career of the selfish, intriguing and immoral Becky Sharp, who overlooks no opportunity to take advantage of her power to fascinate men.

As a character study and as an exposition of the baleful influence of a woman of that type on all with whom she comes in contact, the picture is a wonderful screen achievement. It is fascinating to contemplate the cumulative treacheries of the outwardly smiling but inwardly calculating Becky, though some who see the picture are deficient in that sort of action on which movie-goers have been fed.

Mix in Another Mix-Up. Tom Mix and his horse, Tony, have held the screen at the Liberty, this time in a rattling Western called "Three Jumps Ahead." It would seem that there are "kinks" out in the open spaces as well as in the large cities. One of them gets hold of Tom early in the action. Of course he gets away, but the gang holds his uncle for ransom and Tom has to act quickly to prevent his spectacular relative from stretching out on a given day.

Tom starts out to run down a villain. On the way he meets a girl and promptly falls in love with her. His complication comes when he finds that the girl is the daughter of the man he is hunting. This vexatious delay which

There She Blows!

Remarkably beautiful marine views and a thrill of an unusual kind, the actual chase and capture of a whale, are outstanding features of "Down to the Sea in Ships," which yesterday opened a week's showing at the Pershing Theater.

This picture, written and directed by Elmer Clifton, has in its scenes at least much of the quality of a Herman Melville story, though the romance woven through it is not of such compelling interest as the whaling episodes. The land scenes are photographed in and around New Bedford, Mass., once a center of the whaling industry. Every effort has been made to visualize the life in that old New England town half a century or more ago when the hunt for the sea in ships was the ambition of every boy and the avocation of every able-bodied man in that town.

An old sailing vessel was refitted and an actual whaling expedition was organized for the purposes of this picture. Every salient feature of a whaling cruise, including the actual chase, harpooning and killing of the whale, is shown. Marguerite Courtot and Raymond McKee have the leading roles.

Optimism and the Woman. A story with a decidedly philosophical turn, and yet lacking in action, is "The Midnight Guest," the week's feature at the Rivoli. The problem here is that treatment shall be accorded to a woman who has transgressed the laws of conventional custom. In a way the question is handled symbolically by introducing two men, one of whom stands for optimism and the other for cynical pessimism. These men throughout the action revolve about the woman and the story turns on the effects of their application of their respective optimism and pessimism with respect to her. There is a good deal of sentimentalism and the story has afforded an opportunity to contrast scenes in the lives of the strictly conventional and of those who care less for restraint. Grace D'Amore, Mahlon Hamilton and Clyde Milmore have the leading roles.

"SU SHONG" AT EMPRESS, HAS GOOD SCENIC EFFECTS

"The Love of Su Shong," a melodrama of the Orient, constructed with conspicuous fidelity to the original, is the feature at the Empress Theater, affords another pleasant medium for Hazel Whitmore's talents. She has the role of a winsome Chinese maiden beset by ogre spitters, a chattering stepmother and other troubles to which she would seem, all attractive Chinese girls of marriageable age are heir-esses.

In the case of Su Shong, it is a stalwart American, who is the object of affection and, in accord with melodramatic traditions, it is the American who defies all Oriental conventions, invades a sacred temple to conduct his love making, vanquishes the other suitors, and just quashes the prize. Then, what could be more natural than that the fair Su Shong should turn out to be, not the daughter of Ling, in whose behalf she was about to sacrifice herself through a hateful marriage, but the child of American parents who were slain in the Boxer rebellion.

Capably supporting Miss Whitmore and John Warner, who has the part of the American, are J. Raymond Brown as Tai Ling, George Doan Borup as the menacing suitor, and Bobby Reed as the "white" yellow man whose death makes possible the happy ending. Other speaking parts go to Virginia Springer, Caroline Morrison, Paul Hawley, Charles Colville, Francis Randall and Edw. Schilling.

Shifts back and forth across the Pacific are accomplished by means of a prologue and epilogue. The scenic effects are engaging. That in the temple of Kwan Yin is a bit shuddersome.

DITRICHSTEIN RUFFLES IT AS FRENCH BRAVO

Hazards and Escapes of That Conspirator Against Napoleon, "The Purple Mask"

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

WITH only a casual frangion or so in action, Mr. Leo Ditrachstein is able to dispatch the role of Count Armand de Trevelles in "The Purple Mask," a melodrama, which began a week's visit last night at the Shubert-Jefferson. The actor endows the part with his distinction of voice and manners; his charm makes one forget that this delineator of a romantic hero is neither young nor beautiful; and from time to time emits that gorgeous baritone vibrato which has wrought such havoc in female bosoms in the course of plays like "The Great Lover" and "Toto."

The Chevalier of the Purple Mask is so fabulous a paladin that he soon grows quite incredible. What skill can do in conferring character, the flesh and blood of reality, upon him, that Mr. Ditrachstein achieves. The portrait has a plom, delicacy, a humorous and stately audacity.

The time of this five-act play, freely adapted by Mathewson Lang from the French of Paul Armand and Jean Manoussie, is the first consulate of Napoleon Bonaparte. The action consists in a duel of wits between the mysterious Chevalier of the Purple Mask, a monarchist conspirator, and Brisque, one of Napoleon's most cunning police agents. The combat is attended by hazards, surprises and tensions of thrilling voltage.

"Purple Mask" is Betrayed. Napoleon has laid by the heels one Duc de Chateau-Brand, a royalist leader, and a plot is afoot to rescue him from prison. It is to be executed by a desperado who always wears a purple mask, and who is addicted to leaving, at the scenes of his triumphs, the scribbled boast: "I take what I like," signed with a sketch of a mask with eyeholes.

It occurs very amiably to the Duc's brother that it would be an excellent stroke to permit the police to capture a false "Chevalier of the Purple Mask," so that the true one might have greater liberty in his operations. But the man chosen for capture and execution turns out to be no other than the chevalier himself, and he extricates himself from the predicament with an address which is as disarming to his fellow-royalists as it is to Napoleon's secret agents.

In the course of his strategy he feigns intoxication, and is escorted to a royalist rendezvous in alcoholic amity by no other than a sergeant of police; at the end of the act, he proceeds through two acts so completely disguised that few recognize him. Peggy Allenby plays the heroine, Laurette de Chateau-Brand. Perhaps the way of the play, Mr. Ditrachstein, let it be known that he is planning a spectacular revival of "Faust," for next season at the Century Theater in New York, in which he will play Mephistopheles.

SUCCESSION OF CLEVER ACTS IN WEEK'S BILL AT ORPHEUM

Playlet with William Faversham and Helen Daube One of Vaudeville Hits of Season.

When Lady Alfine informed her wealthy suitor, Harrison Crockett, that his idea of marriage was that it amounted to nothing but a business deal, to be measured in dollars, and that she might have become the bride of the man she really loved had it not been for the interference of her mother, the Duchess, Crockett made a neat little thing for her and before he was through her Ladyship discovered that he really was her ideal, and so she accepted him.

Not much of a plot, but the way it is carried out by William Faversham and Helen Daube at the Orpheum this week makes the 50-minute playlet by Sir Alfred Sutro one of the vaudeville hits of the season.

This is National Vaudeville Artists' Week, and the entire bill is a succession of clever acts in a variety of lines. Harry Watson Jr. and McKay and Ardine are headliners along with Faversham, and they outdo each other in their efforts to win laughs. McKay is one of the most versatile entertainers on the Orpheum circuit. He sings, dances and jokes in a manner that stamps him as high above the average, and he is ably assisted by Otis Ardine, whose German dialect serves as a good foil for McKay's irony. Watson as "Battling Kid" Dugan gives a side-splitting portrayal of what may happen if the stage continues to adopt celebrities from other fields.

Other features include Harrison Greene and Katherine Parker in comedy patter and song; the Herberts, unusually clever comedy acrobats; Neal Abel, "the man with the mobile face"; Powers and Wallace, in "Georgia on Broadway"; the Juggling Nelsons, and a funny afterpiece in which many of the performers take part.

WOMAN IS NEW FIGURE IN THE KEENAN CASE

Sweetheart of Man Suspected by Police to Undergo Questioning as to His Movements.

By Leonard Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 2.—Trailing a new figure in the Dorothy Keenan murder mystery, the police yesterday disclosed why they have delayed the arrest of the suspect they have been under surveillance for almost a week. They hope he will attempt to dispose of the jewelry stolen from Miss Keenan's apartment at 144 West Fifty-seventh street, when she was chloroformed the morning of March 15.

The new figure is a woman—the suspect's sweetheart. She was with him until about midnight of the day preceding the murder. She is to be questioned this week for two reasons, first, because she has been named as an alibi witness; second, because it is believed she may inadvertently make important revelations.

The best that Capt. Carey's men have been able to do to date is to build up a circumstantial case. They are not even certain as to the motive. It may have been blackmail, robbery, or both. Their surprise is that the murder developed from a blackmail scheme and the robbery was an aftermath.

No Outcry Heard.
In any event, they believe the suspect was not only well known to the police, but enjoyed a measure of the confidence, as all tenants of the building—several of whom were awake—say they heard no outcry, such as a woman would utter, instinctively if a stranger were to enter her apartment in the dead of night.

The suspect, if the word of his sweetheart is to be accepted, has accounted for his movements only until midnight of March 14. After that and until 8 on the morning of March 15, when he was awakened for breakfast, there appeared no one to vouch for him.

Questioned by acting District Attorney Pecora and Capt. Carey, he has adhered to his original story to the minute detail. Despite rigorous examination, he has maintained a coolness of demeanor the police regard as uncanny. They describe him as "a hard-boiled egg."

If he committed the murder, he prepared for it with consummate care and cunning. Besides removing the serial number from the four-ounce bottle of chloroform found in her apartment, he also effectually concealed his identity in the purchase of it. The police believe he bought some weeks before the murder. They have found no trace of the purchase in any drug store in New York or adjoining cities.

Seen by No One.
The same forebought character, his visit to Miss Keenan's apartment. No one saw him enter. No one saw him leave. Unless he had a key made for the lock of the exit stairway at 144 West Fifty-seventh street, it would have been a physical impossibility for him to enter the building unseen. He would have to enter the elevator at 144. There is no stairway at that number.

These are the matters Capt. Carey's men are endeavoring to solve. Period is through. Following his examination Saturday of Frank J. Houghtalin, John H. Jackson, J. Kearley Mitchell and John Keenan, Dorothy's elder brother, he said he would not again enter the case unless specifically requested by the police.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder Is Irritated.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in the effort to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

BAKER SEES U. S. IN LEAGUE FIGHTS 13 YEARS TO GET HIS PROPERTY BACK

Former War Secretary Opposes Harding World Court Plan.
CLEVELAND, O., April 2.—President Harding's plan for an international court is all right but it can never do the work of the League of Nations, Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, declared in an address here last night. The court is hoped to be a legal tribunal only, Baker said, and lawyers cannot settle world problems because their dealings are dealings of the past.

Baker said that unless means are taken to prevent another world war, civilization will be destroyed. He does not want to see the United States joined with any other nation in an "entangling alliance," but he thinks it is time to link itself with other powers in promoting world peace. If the present administration does not join the league, its successor will, regardless of the ruling political party, Baker said.

FIGHTS 13 YEARS TO GET HIS PROPERTY BACK

Missouri Alleged It Was Illegally Sold While He Was in State Hospital.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
TRENTON, Mo., April 2.—Thirteen years at law and at last the end seems to be near. In all that time some 12 persons, connected with the case in some way or another, have died, and two are now reported to be in a critical condition. Nathaniel Shanklin, a business man, living in Trenton, and owning considerable property, was declared to be insane in probate court and spent many years in the State Hospital at St. Joseph.

When a guardian was appointed steps were taken to dispose of his estate to raise money and piece by piece his property was sold. When nearly all the estate had been sold, Shanklin returned in 1910 and instituted about 32 suits to recover his property, alleging that it had been sold illegally.

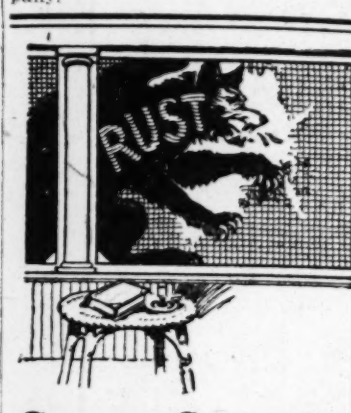

Shanklin seemed almost to have risen from the dead to those who had purchased the property in good faith. The suits went through to the Missouri Supreme Court. Most of them were held up awaiting decision on one case. The decision handed down was complicated, but, in general, the property was to return to Shanklin, the purchaser being refunded the purchase price plus the interest. Rentals, however, were to be paid to Shanklin.

For some this proved a good thing and for others, who had rented their property to advantage, the accounting for the rentals was costly. Most of the cases have been settled on this general basis in the last 10 months and others are pending.

One particular case, against Henry Ward, a miller, has not yet ended. The Court remanded the case and ordered that testimony be taken in regard to rental values. The hearing was at Albany before Judge Dawson. It involved a house and lot in Trenton, which Ward bought from the dowry of Mrs. Shanklin. The house burned about four years ago and the insurance was used up by Shanklin. The result of the case is that Shanklin must pay Ward $3100 for the property and assume a mortgage amounting to $1600, which is said to be more than the property is worth. Ward also gets the insurance. This was Judge Dawson's decision.

Shanklin is now an old man.

Increased health from simple warm water

600,000 men and women have found a new road to increased health, energy and efficiency. Simply from the proper use of warm water.

Yet 9 out of 10 people today are needlessly in constant danger of serious illness caused by Constipation and "Auto-intoxication", which means "self-poisoning". This is due to the fact that, with the sedentary lives we lead, waste matter accumulates in the large intestine. Not even cathartics can cleanse the intestine properly. The residue remains and breeds large colonies of poisonous germs—which are absorbed by the blood.

The Internal Bath—with the J. B. L. Cascade—gives the proper cleansing with simple warm water. It is the method perfected by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell after years of research. More than 600,000 Americans have been restored to new health and energy by this method.

The story of Dr. Tyrrell's life work and the "how and why" of internal bathing are of vital interest to you. They are told in an interesting book entitled "Why Man of Today is Only 50 Per Cent Efficient." If you will write or call on us, we will be glad to give you a copy of this book free—and entirely without obligation.

The Problem of the Ages— How to Drink Conveniently and Safely

From the time the Caveman first cupped his hands to drink more grandly than the beasts, men have sought the perfect drinking utensil.

Before the era of modern sanitation, convenience was the only quality desired. But increasing congestion in cities created a new necessity. Deaths directly traceable to impure drinking frightened civic authorities.

This city has spent millions of dollars to give you one of the finest water systems in the world. To gain the benefit, to safeguard your health, you must drink from a sterile INDIVIDUAL CUP.

After years of experiment a perfect cup was produced. The BURT CUP is completely convenient—supremely SAFE. This dainty, snowy cup of purest paper IS USED ONLY ONCE, then thrown away. The cone shape prevents it being set down and re-used by mistake.

IT IS HANDY TO HOLD. Designed to fit the natural curve of the hand. EVERY CUP IS PERFECTLY MADE.

HOLDS JUST ENOUGH WATER. Special study discovered the exact amount of water to take into the system at each drink. Too little only makes you thirsty; too much chills the stomach. For best results, drink no more than the BURT CUP—ful—but drink FREQUENTLY.

NO SPILLING—NO MUSS. Because the BURT CUP holds just the right quantity, there is no problem of spilling excess water, no damp, unsightly spot on the floor.

DAINTY—UTTERLY SANITARY. From the time the fine wood pulp is made into immaculate paper, to the time you take a BURT CUP from the dust-proof dispenser—yours are the only hands to touch the cup.

Because BURT CUPS safeguard health, they are being provided everywhere. Offices and factories are installing them. The finest hotels and clubs furnish them. Theatres and stores provide them for patrons.

Wherever you see the handsome BURT CUP dispenser, you know your welfare has been thoughtfully considered.

"Keep That Beauty" "Keep that dingy film off teeth"

This is to offer a delightful test, which dentists the world over are now urging.

It will show how to keep those prettier teeth you see after dental cleaning. It will bring you cleaner, safer teeth. When you once see and feel its effects you will never go without it.

Film—the great enemy

Your teeth are coated with a viscous coat. You can feel it now. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Old-way brushing left much film intact. So tooth troubles became almost universal, and beautiful teeth were seen less often than now.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They,

with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

Two daily combatants
Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. These two great film destroyers were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. To careful people of some 50 nations it is bringing a new dental era.

Other new factors
Pepsodent does other things now known to be essential.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

You'll Enjoy It
Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

The results will surprise and delight you.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus those two great natural agents are given manifold effects, while old methods weakened them both.

Now seen everywhere
Wherever you look now you see glistening teeth. You see people smile to show them. New charm, new beauty, has come to millions through combating the film daily.

You owe yourself a test. See and feel the good results this method brings to people. Compare the new way with the old ways, and decide what is best for you and yours. Cut out coupon now.

From the Way He Booted the Ball, Yesterday, Marty McManus Ought to Have Been Helping Out the Scullins

Eight Errors, Four by McManus, Help Ft. Worth Defeat Brownies; Fohlies Regain Batting Optics

Winds and Chill Air Contribute to Downfall of the St. Louis Team in Third Failure of the Spring Training Series.
—Club Is at Shreveport for Two Games.

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.
SIREVEPORT, La., April 2.—Just as the Browns appeared to have struck their stride in fielding they went all to pieces yesterday afternoon at Fort Worth, Tex., and lost the final game of the series by making eight atrocious errors.

With all that assistance the Fort Worth Panthers succeeded in gaining a 4-3 verdict over the Browns' pitching stars, Urban Shooker and "Shucks" Prnett. It was the third defeat suffered by the Fohlnmen this spring in 14 games.

However, the fielding collapse was not serious and the poor work of some of the men was offset by the fine fielding of the two new cogs in the Brownie machine, Eugene Evers and Cedric Durst. Both played faultless ball in the field
though each had some hard chances.

Another pleasing feature of the contest was the fact that the Brown indicated a return to their best batting form.
Against Wachtel, a spitball
thrower and the leading pitcher of the Texas League, they collected eight hits in five innings. Their worst showing was against a joke
pitcher, Tiny Goodbread, the clown of the league, who used an underhand delivery, a smile and got away
like a champion.

Brownies Working Homeward.
Today the Brownies open a two-game series here and tomorrow night
they depart for New Orleans where they will make their longest stand since leaving Mobile.

After games against Columbus and
New Orleans the Fohlnmen go to Memphis April 10 and 11 and then return to St. Louis.

Texas will be left gladly. The weather here has been shifty and disagreeable. Goldwinds have been pitching dangerous and the sunshine of the warm South will be welcomed. There was a chilly blast blowing over the Fort Worth field yesterday, which accounted largely for the Browns' poor fielding.

Four of the eight errors were charged against McManus. Marty could not handle a ground ball at all.
He booted three of them and they scored when covering second on a grounder to Robertson and was unable to hold Robbie's throw. The

Peewee Kaiser to Box Frank Osner Here on April 11

Clever Local Bantamweights
Will Go Ten Rounds at the First Regiment Armory.

Frankie Osner of St. Louis, at present campaigning in Chicago with Patsy Flanagan and Kid Bandy, has definitely accepted a match with Johnny (Peewee) Kaiser, to take place at the First Regiment Armory here, April 11, under the auspices of the Business Men's Athletic Association. The boys will go a scheduled distance of 10 rounds.

Osner showed in his recent contest
here with Mike Kramer, that he has improved greatly since previous bouts and that he is entitled to a match with Peewee. Osner gave an unusually clean, clever exhibition against Kramer.

On the same card, April 11, it is probable that Kid Sparks of Terre Haute will meet Mike Kramer. The winners of the windup and the semiwindup will probably be matched for a future date.

Peewee Kaiser, who was rather freely criticized following his last appearance here against Midget Smith, says he wants to prove that he, too, fights cleanly when his opponent does likewise. Peewee believes that Osner will not resort to any clinching, in which case he guarantees that there will be no complaint against himself.

Beaumont Stands Burn.

By the Associated Press.
BEAUMONT, Tex., April 2.—Fire
of undetermined origin destroyed
two-thirds of the grand stand of the Texas League Park here last night.
Starting in the south wing, the fire carried rapidly toward the structure by a stiff breeze from the south. A dozen streams of water from hand pumps under control Manager Edgington of Beaumont expressed a belief that a cigarette might have been dropped into trash during yesterday's game with New Orleans this afternoon.

Olympia Club of Chicago Beaten By Vespers, 8-1

Visiting Team Composed of Exceptional Players, but Locals Have Good Day.

The Vesper eleven of the St. Louis
Soccer League yesterday administered an 8-to-1 drubbing to the Olympia Club of the Chicago District
Soccer League, in an exhibition game at High School Field. It was one of the most overwhelming triumphs ever registered by a St. Louis soccer team over a Chicago aggregation.

The Hoover won, 4 to 0, from the De Luxe eleven in a preliminary game.
As soccer scores go, eight is an almost stupendous total. It would seem to signify that the losing team was utterly devoid of defense and poorly schooled in the game. However, as individual players the Chicagoans were actually very excellent men. They knew well how to handle
a soccer ball, and when it was a match of skill between two individual players, the visitor usually excelled
in artful control of the ball.

Speed and "Pop" Win.
The St. Louis team won on its dash and willingness to go "all out"
on every effort. The local players took chances in the name of victory and they eventually piled up a great total of goals. Chicago was the first to score on a beautiful shot by Center Forward Rubin. With all due respect to the wonderful shooting of the Vespers, this first score was the prize of the afternoon. He accepted a long pass from the right wing and cracked the ball before it touched
the ground; literally knocking La Barge's hands apart.

Fink, Burke and Gockel operated smoothly and effectively in the halfback division. Perhaps the best work of the local halves that disconcerted the Chicagoans who might have made a truly wonderful appearance if they had been given time.

In the second half goals were scored by Becker, Burke, McCarthy, Brannon, Gockel and Becker, scored in the order named. There was no taint of suspicion about any of the goals—all were well-driven shots,
except the first one of the half,
which was crowded through following a cross from McHenry.

With something of the St. Louis spirit of "go get 'em," the Chicagoans would prove a very formidable combination.

Cohen Tops Local Tenpin Stars in A. B. C. Tourney

Palace Alley Team Star Turns
In 684 Total in Doubles Event.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 2.—Although the seven St. Louis teams which rolled in the A. B. C. tournament, Saturday, failed to place very high in the five-man event, they turned in some very good totals in the doubles and singles events yesterday.

Of the doubles teams Cohen and Cassin of Palace Alley No. 1 team with 1270 rolled the best; Lambert and Beye of the Wooster Lamberts with 1261, followed closely behind.

Other doubles scores which will probably win prizes are: Tavenor and H. Smith 1165; Mason and Healy 1149; R. Harris and Sherwood 1146; Vierheller and Hammann 1133; Bippen and Ameling 1125 and Nelson and R. Graetz 1104.

In the individual event, Harry Reed of the Katsors rolled the best total, 648, and there were nine others from the St. Louis contingent over the 600 mark; Cassin 640, Cohen 635,

J. Wilson 637, W. Lambert 629, C.
Burt 628, H. Dean 626, R. Nelson 624
and J. Jahby 615.

Beye Rolls 650.
Forrest Beye of the Wooster Lambert team shot a total of 650 in the five-man event Saturday night, aiding his team materially in reaching their total of 2834 which was the best score made by a St. Louis team at Milwaukee, and came back in the doubles event with 669, but finished comparatively poorly in the singles with 142, giving him a total for the all events of 1861.

Ben Cohen of the Palace Alley
No. 1 Team got 579 in the five-man event, came back with 684 in doubles and 638 in singles, giving him an 1891 count for the all events.

The tournament is being staged on 28 alleys, this year, to facilitate the handling of the record entry of 1922 teams and all the St. Louis men voted it the best tournament they have ever attended.

The alleys could not be improved upon and all the conditions were the best. That is probably the reason for the tremendous scores which are being bowled there. Despite the fact that the prize list is larger than ever before this year, resulting in the award of more prizes for each event, it will take larger scores to get "in the money" than heretofore.
There have been more than a half dozen scores better than 700 in the individual event.

Three More Local Candidates.
There are still three teams from St. Louis to bowl at Milwaukee. The Junata team No. 1 and No. 2, the Bohls and the Schweitzer Sodas. All these teams bowl within the next tournament will be completed by the few days and it is expected that the end of this week.

Illinois Stream Stocked.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 2.—Three car loads of fish will be placed in the Sangamon River at a point near here by the State Fish and Game Commission, according to an announcement by the Champaign County Rod and Gun Club.
The local club advocated a bill
placing a limit on the size of bass
which may be taken from Illinois streams, but this has been killed in committee in the lower house of the State Legislature. A substitute measure will likely be introduced later by Representative Reeves of Champaign.

One million new users
will say this year:
"Royal Cords!"

"People say—"
What they say has a good bit
to do with a man's first purchase of Royal Cord Tires

HERE'S a question a man
might well ask himself
when he rides off on his first set of Royal Cords:—

Why does he expect so much more from them
than from other tires?

There will be a million new users of Royal Cords this year
—and this is conservative.

Many of these are new car owners—men and women
with very little personal experience with tires of any kind.

Then there's the veteran car owner, who has tried one tire after another, and fin-ly

landed for good with Royal Cords.

People come to U.S. Royal Cords in various ways.

But the greatest single influence on the tire user today
is the openly expressed confidence in Royal Cords and the men who make them.

The makers of Royal Cords
ask you to try these tires on your car.

What other concern in the industry could make a similar request without fear of being misunderstood?

All the U.S. Royal Cord policies are just as simple as that.

Wall Street
News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 2.—For
very sharp decline in the stock market today there was no explanation.
The selling movement started in Wall Street but rapidly spread to the industrial and in the last
the whole market became weak. Losses of 2 to 3 points were common in the steel, motor equipment shares. Among the others Anaconda was driven down
from 49 and Utah below 71.
The rails had most of their loss in the early part of the day but displayed no tendency toward recovery
in the late dealings wound
near the bottom. Specialties American Can and California Petroleum broke badly. The close weak all around.

The Bond Market.

In the face of limited trading
general inactivity bond prices up very well. There was no weakness anywhere and in a cases advances were recorded.
High grade securities although gains were small.
The acute weakness in rail
stocks was not paralleled in even in the cases of the speculative descriptions. As a matter of fact speculative railroad bonds have been selling on a parity with road stocks in a long time.

CATTLE RUN LIGHT AND PRICES RULE STEADY

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., April
2.—Receipts today, estimated: Cattle, calves, 3500; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 1000.
CATTLE.—A light run found fairly easy at generally steady to strong prices.
Estimated receipts, 3500 head, including quality of the usual Monday cattle. The bulk of best steers, 1000 to 1200, with a few desirable calves to $8.00. Old but of choice weight up to $9.75 and $10, although $9.00
regarded as the practical top.
Quotations: Best steers, bulk, $7.25
to $8.50; butcher cows, bulk, $5.25 to $6.50; range, $3.40 to $4.50; cowboys, range, $2.75 to $3.25; and
yearling bulls, bulk, $4.75 to $5.25;
and feeder steers, bulk, $2.75 to $3.25.
HOGS.—The new week opened with a liberal run of hogs, both locally and from the Western circuit. The market was quiet at 18,000 and closed only 2100 direct and through last Monday the run was 10,000 and closed 3500 direct. There were more actually on sale today than were offered last week ago. The offering included a substantial proportion of pigs and light stuff
from the South, a condition that is not reported for the later months. Market nearly with competition broad, but were inclined to be somewhat weaker
because of reports from other markets.
Trade was generally steady to be lower,
an $8.50 top on choice light butchers and packers. Packers, city butchers and buyers were all competing, however,
it was not long before the market was fully steady with Saturday's best time,
later run of $8.00 being paid freely
of the choice shipping and light butchers and packers, cleared at $8.50
with medium weights 220 to 240 at $8.00
and heavy finished hogs 250 pounds up to $8.50. Some of the good were strong to 10c higher, some with Saturday's average. The good were 120 pounds and up showing were fairly ready at $7.75 to $8.00.
Medium and light weight hogs, however,
were not so active and while the
was steady, sellers here and there experienced difficulty in moving the plain weights. The medium weight pigs sold at $6.75 to $7.00 and the light kinds at $6.50 to $6.75. Rough packer hogs showed little change from last week's close,
the same ranging close to $7.25.
Packers were fair buyers. Hogs moved in range, $5.00 to $5.25.
SHEEP.—Under a moderate run of head of sheep and lambs, the market was a steady basis with the close last week. Heavy buying was done by the city butcher who paid up to $14.75 for some 20-lb.
lambs. The lambs were not strictly however. Clipped lambs sold up to $12.50 steadily. Sheep and other aged classes showed change, some went even averaging the bringing $9. Heavy ewes ranged from $7 to $8. Wool was quotation up to $6.50 and clipped wethers from $7.00 to $8.00. Choppers and from $4 to $5 and canners from $2 to $3.

LIQUIDATION IN COTTON
FOLLOWS A FIRM STATE

NEW YORK, April 2.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 7 points on covering and scattered which seemed to be due to reports that recent cold wave had failed to kill boll worms. Subsequent to the State of Alabama believed that the further wage advance reported in New England over the boll would lead to a settlement of the Fall dispute and rather unswerving weather in South. There was a renewal of liquidation and Wall Street selling of most which caused the market off right after noon, however, with May contracts selling from 28.80 to 28.47 or 15 points net loss July declined from 28.13c to 27.75c or points net loss, but later months had steadily steady within a point or two of Thursday's closing quotations. The cotton market will reopen for business
tomorrow.
There was no broadening of demand
the midday rally and the market weakened during the afternoon under a renewal of near-month liquidation and selling some of the earlier buyers. May was fairly weak, selling off to 28.23, or points net lower, while October declined 15.15 or 9 points below Thursday's closing quotations.
Cotton futures closed steady: May, 28.13;
July, 27.75; October, 25.25; December,
24.75; January, 24.44.
NEW YORK, April 2.—Cotton spot
middling, 28.55c.

The Girl in the Corner Apartment

By May Christie.

(Copyright, 1923, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
LXXII.—A KISS.

THE CHARACTERS.

CYNTHIA BRANT, country girl, living in a New York apartment she has inherited from an old lady she once befriended.

RUBY ALLISON, her gay and frivolous friend.

ALEC KERR, Ruby's fiancé.

QUENTIN GRAY, an artist friend of Ruby's.

AUNT ELLEN, who keeps house for Cynthia.

MURRAY STEWART, for whom Cynthia is working as a stenographer.

MRS. WAKELAND, friend and rich client of Stewart's, who takes a fancy to Cynthia.

VIOLET JERROLD, friend of Murray's.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

Shortly after 10 Cynthia was dressed, and went alone for a stroll. At 11 o'clock she returned to the hotel, and—having gone up to the sitting room—found that Mr. Coverdale had arrived and was waiting for her.

She was wearing two of the roses he had sent, fastened into her coat, and she thanked him in rather a subdued tone for the gift.

"And now run off, you two young folks," said Mrs. Wakeland in a sprightly fashion. "I have lots to do this morning. Rex, bring her back to lunch at half past one, and not a moment later."

They went to the park. It was very beautiful out there, with its throngs of riders and promenaders, reveling in the sunshine and fresh air.

"Something like a church parade in Potten Row, in London," said the Southerner.

Cynthia had never been to London, so didn't know.

But, indeed, the park was very beautiful, with its tender green and flowering shrubs.

The toilettes of the women fascinated her. Black and white, of the most extreme cut and severity, seemed the mode, worn with an air to suit the garment.

The young man's eyes were on Cynthia's face. He was very badly "hit," he told himself. Like all Southerners, he was susceptible to a degree, and beauty swayed him, and the indefinable charm this young girl had.

He had considered himself in love on more than one occasion. Unfortunately, the condition had only been a temporary one! For the Virginian was romantic to the point of fickleness, although it had never dawned on him that this was so.

"Our Southern girls are pale, but very charming," he proceeded, in a confidential tone. "They're the 'clinging vine' type, and just as lazy as they make 'em. Like to lie in hammocks on the front porch, with a mint julep at their elbow, and a handsome young man fanning them."

"They must have kept you busy," commented Cynthia, demurely.

He gave a hearty laugh.

"Oh, I've had lots of 'crushes,' but either the girl turned me down, or fate 'jes' separated us, I reckon. 'Twas all for the best, I'm sure." This with another meaning look at Cynthia's pretty face.

The air was fragrant with the scent of young, growing things.

"I wish you were staying here just a little longer," said her companion, breaking in on her thoughts. "Of course, New York is only 18 hours away, and I often run over for a little change. May I come and call on you?"

Without waiting for an answer, he proceeded:

"Honest-to-goodness, Miss Brant, it would be a real favor if you'd allow me to get to know you better. I've told my mother all about you, and she wants me to bring you to tea at the apartment this afternoon. She's got a host of friends, and you'd meet people that would interest you—artists and writers and theatrical folk, and a sprinkling of politicians, and of course a crowd of young fellows, pals of mine and hers."

Cynthia murmured something as to its being very kind, but didn't commit herself in any way.

She was interested in the gorgeous-appareled passers-by, and was startled when the Southerner beside her said, in a humble, anxious tone:

"Forgive my inquiring, Miss Cynthia, but is there anyone in particular that you—er—care for?"

"We were speaking about love affairs, you may remember."

"I'm afraid I don't remember."

An amused twinkle had crept into her dark eyes at his naivete.

"Well, will you tell me, please?"

"And why should I?" The rapidity with which he tackled matters rather startled her.

"Because I—well, you've sort of taken my breath away. Knocked the ground from under my feet, as it were. Clean bowled me over."

"But you scarcely know me," she protested.

"I feel as though I'd known you all my life," he averred.

When they got back to the hotel she paused near the elevator, and held out her hand to him. In French fashion, he stooped suddenly and kissed it.

She flushed, embarrassed, and unaccustomed to this foreign courtesy.

Before she could withdraw her hand, she saw a couple walking directly toward her, witnesses of the little drama. It was Mrs. Wakeland, and at her side was Murray Stewart, newly arrived in Chicago. Tomorrow—Cynthia wondered.

FRIEND OR HUSBAND?

By Betty Vincent

THERE is a whole lot to be said about the single girl who has a married girl pal.

Two single girls can devote themselves to each other at a moment's notice. They can plan dates far ahead and keep them, they can be almost inseparable, and they can be as carefree and unconcerned about time as the birds of the air.

But when a single girl and a married girl pal together, there are certain reservations which must be made and the thinking single girl will respect them.

"Won't you please write something about the girl who is not married, and who believes that the married woman should have the same interest and freedom as she?" writes a young matron. "I have such a pal to deal with each day. She thinks it is a shame that I would rather spend the evenings with my husband than to attend concerts, theater parties, etc., with her, where only women are reckoned. 'Twas all for the best, I'm sure.' This with another meaning look at Cynthia's pretty face.

"My husband does not neglect me for other interests. On his lodge night he sees that I have company or seats to a show and does not for a moment think of me spending my evening alone. Of course, I can go skating and swimming on those nights, but there are only two of such each month."

"I believe there are many such single girls trying to take their girl friends away from their husbands' evenings and holidays. Won't you please write them up strong so they can see our side?"

It is true there are a number of single girls who still expect their married friends to run around with them as they did in the days when both girls were free. But every married woman must have the courage and the grit to tell her former girl chums that she can only devote a certain portion of her time to them.

The newly married man also has to shake a number of old pals. He cannot expect to play poker into the still hours, go to his club or run around with Jack or Bill, as he did in the days of his bachelorhood. It is, therefore, up to every girl to realize that even though she seems to be losing many concerts and "all girl" parties her husband is also obliged to give up beefsteak dinners and many a stag party.

The single girl will continue to tag her newly married pal as long as she has the least bit of encouragement. It is quite natural that she should. She will expect to run in before breakfast on her way to work just as hubby is about to kiss wife goodby; she will come in before the dinner dishes are done and expect hubby to finish them up while the two run off to a woman's club to smoke cigarettes, but the sensible Mrs. Newlywed will put a stop to this at once. She will just say: "Bestie, Bessie, saddle and whisper 'Get married yourself, Bessie, and then we'll run around together when our husbands are at their lodges.'"

How to Understand Your Husband

The Old-Fashioned Tyrant

(Copyright, 1923.)

"Oh, don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt, Sweet Alice, with hair so brown, She wept with delight when you gave her a smile, And trembled with fear at your frown?"

By Winifred Harper Cooley.

M. BENJAMIN BOLT was, we think, the typical old-time tyrant. If he was not married at the time when sweet Alice wept at his smile and trembled at his frown, how much more terrible would have been her terror had she really belonged to him! We congratulate sweet Alice upon lying peacefully beneath a slab of granite so gray, under the sod!

The churchyards are filled with sweet Alices, three to a husband, who slept well after life's titful fever of trying to obey "father."

How well we recall the generation of our grandparents, when father and the girls literally trembled in "Pa" was in a rage, or a grouch. For a female of the family to have read a newspaper before "your father" had seen it would have been anarchy indeed. In the black dawn of the frosty winter morning, after Ma had risen and built the fire, and broken the ice in the water picher so she could wash her hands, and perhaps had gone out into the yard and thaved the pump to get water for breakfast, father emerged and grumbled for his five-course breakfast. While he partook of his hot cereal and beefsteak, or ham and eggs, and home-baked bread, and apple sauce, and hot griddle cakes, and syrup, and coffee, the entire household held its breath. No one would have dared disturb him.

Any favors, such as a request for a little loose change, or permission to go to see a neighbor had to be made at the psychological moment, when father put his stocking feet on the table and smoked his pipe.

We have known of women who had borne 16 children, in addition to doing the severe labor of enormous households, to ask timidly for 45 cents to pay the butter man, and have heard the lord of the household grumble and scold him accept a nickel change! One has heard the "master" of the home ask scowlingly what had become of the 22.13 which was in the crackler jar. For mother had spent on her own account an special act of legislation would have been necessary. She was thankful if she could wheedle the old man out of cash for piano lessons for Jennie, or a new sled for Robert. Poor, unselfish mother!

Those were the good old days. Could the average paterfamilias have seen the present labor-saved little homes, with vacuum cleaner whisking the dust out of the air and the fleas off the dog, and the electric and gas ranges, and hardwood floors, and elevators, he would have demanded haughtily what was the use of a wife, anyway, if she didn't WORK for him!

He has seen the bills for sheer pleasures—for the phonographs, the automobiles, party gowns, permanent waves, the cigarettes, champagne, $16 shoes, matinee, candy and cut flowers—well, Pa would have passed away in agony, faded out of the picture.

Yet the old-time husband was supposed to love his wife and children. He slaved and saved and did what he could for them—according to his lights! We are glad, however, that we live in an age when husbands have been educated up into other "lights!"

Although the general standard of living has been raised many notches, and most husbands come across pretty cheerfully for all the delicious extravagances that form our present-day necessities, individuals, of course, do not always keep pace with the average. There are today, especially in small communities, many husbands who tyrannize over their families and actually regard themselves as little gods, to be feared and obeyed.

They may not express the male egotism quite so frankly as the poet Milton, who said:

"Man looked to God, but woman found Her God in Man."

Not a few wives have to employ guile and craft and subtle deceit, in order to obtain the necessary money or permission for little amusements from a reluctant spouse, and it is not uncommon to hear the word "obey" from the lips of married pairs supposed to be on a basis of equality and reciprocal responsibility. Many a wife says: "If John will LET me," and really dreads the veto of a petty tyrant.

One does not counsel revolution in such homes, but it is exasperating to see them on such a feudal basis. Look at the narrow range husband of Main street, Mrs. Knickerbocker, and thank heaven that your spouse is an up-to-the-minute, ultra-modern city man.

"How's the Boy?"

By WINIFRED BLACK

WELL—how's the "boy?" chuckled the gray-haired man.

"Fine and dandy!" grinned the white-haired man, sitting across the aisle in the street car raised their eyebrows with the condescension of elderly persons who can't see how much can be said to a child—smiled and felt greatly satisfied with themselves.

"How's the boy?" And the boy was 40 if he was a day—well, why not?

Why not be a boy as long as you can?

How much wiser is a grumpy old man than a light-hearted little boy, anyway?

How much more does he get out of life?

If the Mysterious Stranger should knock at your door tonight and take you with him out into the dark, what memories would you take with you? And what is much more important, what memories would you leave behind for those you love to cherish?

Behind the Cheery Words.

Would Mary remember you, John, as the testy, untidy, absent-minded person, with the newspaper and the check-book? Not if she really loves you—not she!

It's the boy in you who'll remember—the boy who never grew up, the boy who was easily hurt, disappointed at trifles, a little vain and conceited maybe, in a boyish way, but just as boyishly kind and forgiving and trusting.

"How's the boy?" Well, I happen to know that that particular boy just came out of his house and caught that particular street car after being up all night with a sick wife—and the cook didn't want to be bothered with invalid stuff and she left, and the doctor began to come, and the fire-said boy cooked his wife's breakfast and served it to her, and he remembered something he'd read somewhere about breakfast trays and picked a leaf from the climbing geranium and put it on the tray and the very chances of it brought the loving tears to the invalid's eyes.

And then he made his own coffee and fried his own bacon, and read his paper in the lonesome dining room, and straightened things out as best he could and stayed till the new cook arrived and then hurried downstairs to make the most of a day already nearly gone.

True courage and philosophy. And his eldest son isn't doing very well, and his daughter ran away with a stranger and the middle boy spends a good deal more than he should at college, and business isn't just what it ought to be—well, how's the boy?

"Fine and dandy!" Bless his heart—why shouldn't he call himself a boy—if it helps him keep up his spirits?

"Fine and dandy!" Yes, that's just what he is, and what he always has been, and always will be, old or young, sick or well, poor or prosperous—fine and dandy! It cheers my heart and fills me with a kind of determined courage just to think of him—the white-haired boy, who's always fine and dandy to the world, no matter how sick at heart he is inside.

The world is a better place to live in just for him—my lady with the mischievous smile and the elevated eyebrows. It would be a good idea to borrow a little of his courage and get him to lend you a bit of his philosophy.

Beauty Takes Precedence Over Warmth—Pale Peach and Hydrangea Tones Vie With Brilliant Greens and Rich Copper Hues.

By MME. FRANCES.

THE FASHION Creator of Fashions.

URING the winter months a delectable wrap must combine warmth with beauty, for when you go out in the night air lightly clad in a delectable evening gown, you must be amply protected from shining cold to dainty evening slippers.

But Easter means that the warm spring evenings are at hand, so the question of warmth isn't such a vital one. Your wrap must be what its name implies, but it can exploit one of the newer silken fabrics of spring and not concern itself too much with the question of thickness.

Where warmth is a vital issue, the lining can supply most of it. When you see the gorgeous crepes and silks being used in the new spring wraps you'll realize that the medium means as much as the design, for the materials are truly stunning.

There are heavy silken crepes, soft pliable grosgrain fabrics and youthful taffetas. They come in pale peach and hydrangea tones, as well as in brilliant greens and rich copper hues.

The collection here gives you an idea of the variety of choice offered. I'm showing two capes and two wraps, the varied treatments showing how becoming an evening wrap can be.

On the left is a wrap-across ingraded that exploits stunning heavy grosgrain silk in beige tone. The sleeves of copper-colored metal lace are banded in kolinsky fur, this fur being repeated on the thick roll collar which stands up high about the neck. The wrap is lined in lemon crepe.

There are several points about this wrap worthy of special comment because they stress notes that are outstanding ones for spring. For instance, the roll collar which frames the face is highly valued by the woman who knows these delectable touches that go to make a wrap becoming. Any coiffure is more regal in effect when it is offset by this flaring collar that is so smart for spring. Transparent sleeves veil but do not hide the charm of a well-turned arm, while the garment which makes the figure as flat as possible at the back and front is valued for its chic.

Next to the left is a cape made on simple lines, massed silken roses forming the collar and dropped-yoke treatment. The material is crepe romanine and the tint a delicious peach. The peach and mauve roses have leaves of silver, and as the wearer moves you can catch an occasional glimpse of pale mauve charmeuse lining.

The third wrap, of hydrangea blue crepe, also stresses the upstanding collar and the flat silhouette. The design features a gorgeous Egyptian design in turquoise and silver. Egyptian inspiration will be seen on all sides this season. It is noticed especially in head dresses, in giraffe ornaments and in exquisitely worked designs, such as the one here. This one insets delicate turquoise stones among the silver threads of the design. Strips of silver appear again at the shoulders.

The collar and cuffs are of blue monkey fur, which is really dyed goat fur. Dyed fur, by the way, is exceedingly smart for summer use. It will be seen on gowns and wraps, in matching, or contrasting shades. It is sufficiently light in weight to be combined with chiffon, lace or any delicate summer material.

The fourth wrap is youthful and smart in its use of jade green taffeta lined in taffeta of bright lemon yellow. The smocking and the embroidered border of points are done in gold, while the long, slim ties are of dark brown velvet.

More and more attention is given this season to smart accessories for evening costumes. Beneath smart wraps are seen lovely scarfs, often made of contrasting bands of chiffon and silver ribbon. These yards in length, so they can be dropped to the ground.

Soft furs, such as mink, also go well in scarfs of narrow ermine bands, and with strips of sheer chiffon, lovely scarfs. The brown and summer ermine makes a smart scarf with chiffon of a pale color. Sometimes these scarfs are about the body, suggesting a mummy.

So many things date the Egyptian inspiration, and the gown of long plain tulle fits the body like a second skin, extending in from the knees down.

The waistline this season is definitely raised. The gown to have frocks follow the normal lines of the body, doing away with the dropped waistline of the past. Sometimes the line of the skirt, extending in from the knees down.

The vogue for fullness is about the lower part of the costume. This is seen in the most often occurs in the circular inset across the skirt, extending in from the knees down.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Chuck Has a Grouch

By Thornton W. Burgess

Don't be a grouch; it doesn't pay. It's sure to drive your friends away.

JOHNNY CHUCK had a grouch. Yes, sir, Johnny Chuck had a grouch. Peter Rabbit said so. So did every one else who met Johnny that spring morning when he came out of his house for the first time after his long winter's sleep. A grouch, you know, is a feeling that everything is wrong and nothing right. A person with a grouch is a most unpleasant person to have around.

Now ordinarily Johnny Chuck isn't at all grouchy. He usually takes things as they come and makes the best of them. But this particular morning he couldn't see any good in anything, and it was all because he had had to get up when he didn't want to. It works that way with some people.

After Peter Rabbit left him sitting on his doorstep Johnny Chuck sat there for some time without moving. The sunshine was very warm out there, and Johnny felt that he needed all the warmth that he could get. He had slept curled up in his underground bedroom without once moving for so many weeks that it seemed to him he never would be able to run around again. He felt cold and stiff, and very, very much out of sorts.

Winsome Bluebird flew over to a fence post close by where Johnny was sitting. "Welcome, old sleepy head," cried Winsome Bluebird. "Isn't this a lovely spring day?"

"A lovely day doesn't put food in an empty stomach," grumbled Johnny Chuck.

"Pooh!" exclaimed Winsome Bluebird. "No one as fat as you should be worrying about food."

"Fat under the skin doesn't fill an empty stomach, nor satisfy an appetite," grumbled Johnny Chuck. "I don't see any green things yet, so how is a fellow going to eat?"

"Have you been to look for anything yet?" asked Winsome Bluebird.

"No, and I don't intend to look. It would be a waste of time," retorted Johnny Chuck.

Just then Jimmy Skunk came ambling along. Jimmy, who never allows anything to worry him, was in the best of spirits. "Hello, Johnny!" he cried. "I'm glad to see you awake."

"I'm not glad to be awake," snapped Johnny. "I don't see any sense in waking a fellow up until there's something to wake up for."

"I found some fat beetles this morning," said Jimmy Skunk. He snatched his lips as he thought of them.

"I don't eat beetles," grumbled Johnny Chuck.

"You ought to learn to, then," said Jimmy Skunk. "Then you would find something worth waking up for in the spring."

Johnny Chuck simply turned his back on Jimmy Skunk. Then he began to mutter to himself. "There's no sense, there's no sense at all, in waking a fellow so early. Ouch, how stiff I am! I don't believe I'll ever be able to run. No, sir, I don't believe I'll ever be able to run a step. I wish that sun was twice as warm as it is. I don't feel as if I ever would get warm through. I don't see what everybody is making such a fuss about the spring for. I don't like it. I suppose for the next two or three weeks I'll have to run my legs

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

A Glimpse Into the Life of Adelina Patti, the Veritable "Queen of Song"

By Mark Stuyvesant.

A FEW years prior to the Civil War a girl of 16 made her operatic debut in New York. She sang the title role of "Lucia di Lammermoor."

The next morning one of the leading musical critics reported the performance in his column:

"Everyone predicts a career for this young artist, and who knows but the managers may find in her a long-looked-for sensation!"

A sensation: In two years she was the talk of Europe. People stood in line all night waiting to buy tickets at exorbitant prices to hear "The Queen of Song."

Many persons considered Patti an American singer. She was born in Madrid, Spain, of Italian parents, but spent her childhood and early girlhood in America, where her father conducted an opera company.

When she was 6, Adelina Patti sang operatic airs as naturally as she talked to her dolls.

At 7 Patti was delighting large audiences with her remarkable voice. This she continued until she was 11 under the management of her brother-in-law, Strakosck. For years she sang with the great violinist, Ole Bull.

This youthful singer developed into a beautiful and fascinating woman—with one of the most extraordinary voices that ever came from a human throat.

Her art—which was unsurpassed—won for her not only fame and fortune, but thousands of friends. Among these, Patti counted Kings and Queens.

It is said that Patti enjoyed the intimate friendship of these royal personages in a way which a woman not of royal blood was never before known to do. Her art was her passport. After meeting them her charming personality held their interest and made them her firm friends.

Both Patti's father and mother were opera singers of repute, but their little daughter exceeded them in art and talent beyond all of their dreams.

It was not until her third marriage that the great diva found happiness.

Her first two marriages, one to the Marquis de Caux, and the other to the tenor, Nicolini, ended disastrously.

But with her third husband, Baron Cederstrom, born a Swede—but afterward swearing allegiance to the crown of Great Britain—Patti realized the joy and contentment every marriage should bring.

After touring Europe, South America and the United States, and being received everywhere as though she were a Queen—for no one held a more regal position in the world of music or reigned for a longer period—Adelina Patti bought a beautiful estate in Wales called Craig-y-Nos.

Her story could end like the fairy tale:

"And they lived happily ever after."

And they did. Patti's entertainments were famous and charming. She sang for her guests and arranged operettas in which they all took part, wearing her costumes.

It is an interesting fact that the great singer was the most expert woman billiard player of her day. Her home was a mecca for artists and other interesting people. There, in Wales, "The Queen of Song" lived her own little court until she died in 1919.
